

Newsletter

The newsletter I created was for a fifth grade class. It is the introductory newsletter welcoming students to the fifth grade. The first newsletter really gives students and parents insight into how your classroom will be conducted and who you are as a teacher. I really feel newsletters should be welcoming and give all the information needed to allow students to know what will be expected of them for the following year. Truly, a good newsletter is your first introduction to community building in your classroom and is one of the best ways to keep parents informed about what their children are doing in school.

In my classroom, I will be sending home smaller versions of newsletters every week. In the newsletters I will include: spelling words for the week, vocabulary, test information, homework, celebrations, content we are studying and any other important information parents will need to know.
